COLUMBUS, OHIO

285TH MEDICAL COMPANY

The 285th Medical Company was organized in Columbus on April 27, 1927 as Headquarters Company, 3d Battalion, 166th Infantry. In 1935, the unit was reorganized as the 1st Battalion, 166th Infantry and was ordered into federal service on Oct. 15, 1940 for training prior to World War II. In February 1942, the 166th Infantry was relieved from assignment to the 37th Division and remained in the United States as a training regiment. The unit was inactivated on Feb. 1, 1944 at Fort Sill, Okla.

The company was reorganized in the Ohio National Guard on April 11, 1947 as Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 1st Battalion, 166th Infantry. The regiment was organized as a separate regimental combat team. On Sept. 1, 1959, the Ohio National Guard underwent a statewide reorganization and the company was redesignated as the Reconnaissance Platoon, Combat Support Company, 1st Battalion Group, 166th Infantry and was an element of the 37th Infantry Division.

On April 1, 1963, the division underwent another reorganization and the unit was converted to Company D, 112th Medical Battalion. The company has remained a medical unit ever since. On Feb. 15, 1968, the 37th Infantry Division was removed from the Army force structure and Company D was reorganized as Company E, 113th Medical Battalion. In May 1968, it was further redesignated as Company C, 113th Medical Battalion. The company was part of the 73d Brigade, 38th Infantry Division.

On March 1, 1977, the brigade was reorganized from a divisional brigade to a separate brigade and the support elements organized into a support battalion. Concurrently, Company C was reorganized as Company B, 237th Support Battalion and was responsible for the brigade's medical support. On Dec. 1, 1988, the battalion further reorganized and Company B was redesignated as Company C, 237th Support Battalion.

On April 16, 2006, the company was converted to an area support medical company and was redesignated as the 285th Medical Company. On June 26, 2006, the company was ordered into federal service and deployed to Iraq where it earned the Meritorious Unit Commendation. The company most recently deployed to Kuwait in 2022-23.

Headquarters Company, 1st Battalion, 166th Infantry, 37th Division, Camp Perry, Ohio, 1935.

HERALDIC ITEMS

DISTINCTIVE UNIT INSIGNIA

Description/Blazon: A silver color metal and enamel device 1 inch (2.54 cm) in height overall consisting of a rectangular shield divided per chevron reversed, maroon above white, on the maroon portion the skull and horns of a Texas Longhorn steer in silver; on the white portion a conventionalized poppy and fleur-de-lis both of maroon. Attached below the shield a maroon arced segmented scroll inscribed "AUXILIUM SEMPER ADEST" in silver letters.

Symbolism: Maroon and white are the colors of the Medical Department. The skull and horns of the Texas Longhorn represent service on the Mexican Border, and the poppy and fleur-de-lis symbolize service in Flanders and in France, respectively, during World War I. The motto translates to "Help Always Ready."

Background: The distinctive unit insignia was originally approved for the 112th Medical Regiment on 3 July 1928. It was redesignated for the 112th Medical Battalion on 3 September 1943. It was redesignated for the 112th Medical Group on 25 September 1974. The insignia was redesignated for the 112th Medical Brigade on 14 August 1975. The insignia was redesignated for the 112th Medical Battalion on 1 September 2023.

COAT OF ARMS

Description/Blazon:

Shield: Per chevron reversed Sanguine and Argent, in chief the skull and horns of a longhorn steer of the second, in base a conventionalized poppy and a fleur-de-lis of the first.

Crest: That for the regiments of the Ohio National Guard: On a wreath of the colors Argent and Sanguine a sheaf of seventeen arrows of the first bound by a sprig of buckeye fruited Proper.

Motto: AUXILIUM SEMPER ADEST (Help Always Ready).

Symbolism: Maroon and white are the colors of the Medical Department. The skull and horns of the Texas Longhorn represent service on the Mexican Border, and the poppy and fleur-de-lis symbolize service in Flanders and in France, respectively, during World War I.

Background: The coat of arms was originally approved on 16 January 1968 and cancelled on 7 October 1974. The coat of arms was redesignated for the 112th Medical Battalion effective 01 September 2023.

SHOULDER SLEEVE INSIGNIA

Description/Blazon: On a buff vertical octagonal-shaped embroidered device, arcing outwardly at top and bottom, a blue wavy horizontal band bearing three buff stars, between in base an arrowhead and in chief a polestar, all red; all within a 1/8 inch (.32 cm) red border. Overall dimensions are 2 inches (5.08 cm) in width and 3 inches (7.62 cm) in length.

Symbolism: Buff and red are the colors traditionally used by the Sustainment units. The wavy band suggests water, alluding to a "large creek," the meaning of the name Ohio and the location of the Brigade. The three stars represent the unit's campaign credits in World War I, World War II, and the Global War on Terrorism. The arrowhead signifies the Brigade's service in the fight for Luzon during World War II and the motto "Logistic Warriors." The polestar denotes the unit's leadership to guide service members and deployment capabilities worldwide.

Background: The shoulder sleeve insignia was approved for the 371st Sustainment Brigade effective 1 September 2007.
