RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS (ROTC)

The Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps is a way for young people to start strong in life. This is the college elective for undergraduate and graduate students that provides unrivaled leadership training for success in any career field. If you have a passion for it, you can find a place to fit in the Army as an officer and get the training you need to turn that passion into a career.

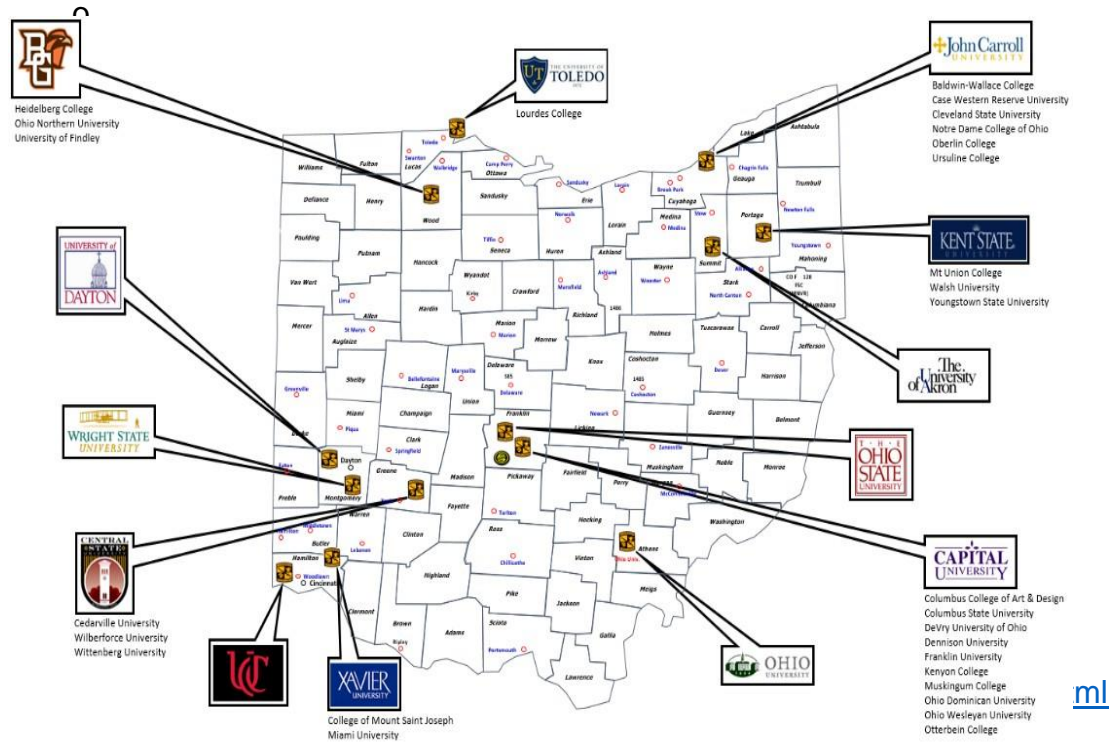

Army ROTC is a four-year program consisting of the 2-year Basic Course and the 2-year Advanced Course. Individuals may receive credit for the ROTC Basic Course by successfully completing one of the following:

- Military Science I and Military Science II (MS I/II) in an approved ROTC Program
- Basic Camp Course (formerly Leadership Training Course – LTC)
- Initial Active Duty Training (IADT), to include Basic Combat Training (BCT) and Advanced Individual Training (AIT).

Members of the Army National Guard who have completed IADT are eligible to enter the ROTC Advanced Course. An ARNG member who is also contracted in ROTC is referred to as a Simultaneous Membership Program (SMP) Cadet. Normally, the ARNG member enters ROTC at the beginning of the junior year in college in order to maintain academic alignment for undergraduate students:

Freshman:	Military Science I (MSI)
Sophomore:	Military Science II (MSII)
Junior:	Military Science III (MSIII)
Senior:	Military Science IV (MSIV)

In addition to teaching you valuable leadership skills, military training, and discipline, ROTC can also provide you with money for tuition and other expenses through scholarships. If you're a high school junior or senior and are interested in enrolling in Army ROTC, talk to your academic advisor about the opportunity.

College Students

If you're interested in enrolling in Army ROTC and you are in college, you can start by talking to the Army ROTC Enrollment Officer on your campus about taking the Army ROTC basic elective course and about the incentives available including opportunities to compete for two-, three- or four-year merit-based scholarships.

Junior College and Graduate Students

If you have two years remaining in junior college or graduate school, you are still eligible to enroll in Army ROTC. Please visit the Army ROTC Enrollment Officer on your campus!

OFFICER CANDIDATE SCHOOL (OCS)

Officer Candidate School is the U.S. Army's main training academy for prospective Army Officers. The school is open to qualified enlisted personnel and civilians that meet the applicable prerequisites.

OCS Program Options.

State Traditional OCS (TOCS): A National Guard program that consists of three phases; all of which are conducted over drill weekends and two Annual Training (AT) periods. This option allows for the greatest flexibility for Soldiers to maintain a civilian career while earning a commission as an officer. The high-paced learning environment, increased responsibility, and management of tasks between training periods closely replicates the responsibilities of a commissioned officer within the OHARNG. Regardless of previous rank, all candidates are equal in stature with their peers.

Pre-OCS: A five day training period conducted at the 147th RTI at the Defense Supply Center Columbus (DSCC), located at 3990 E Broad St, Whitehall, OH 43213. The objective of Pre-OCS is to build OC proficiency in skills that are vital to successful completion of OCS (land navigation, map reading, and physical training) and the completion of all administrative requirements prior to an OC shipping to Phase 1. The scheduling of Pre-OCS is dependent on the course route an OC is pursuing. In general, Pre-OCS will be completed within the 90 day period prior to their scheduled Phase 1 ship date. Pre-OCS only applies to applicants for a State OCS program.

Phase 1: A two week Annual Training (AT) period in the summer, typically conducted at Aberdeen Proving Ground (APG), Maryland. On day one, applicants are administratively promoted to the pay grade of E5 and obtain the MOS 09S; assuming the title of Officer Candidate (OC). The objective of Phase 1 is to produce candidates ready for intermediate training by combining tactical and technical training with leadership development. This phase is both physically and mentally demanding. The key task for Phase 1 is completion of the land navigation practical exercise.

Phase 2: Conducted in an Inactive Duty Training (IDT) status for 12 months at the 147th RTI. The objectives of this phase are proficiency in Troop Leading Procedures (TLP's), military history, ruckmarches, and leadership development. Candidates receive peer and cadre feedback on their leadership abilities throughout this phase.

Phase 3: A two week AT period in the summer, typically conducted at APG, Maryland. Candidates are evaluated on leadership applications and performance during Situational Training Exercises (STX). Successful completion of Phase 3 results in the OC's completion of the OCS program.

State Accelerated OCS (AOCS): An aggressive National Guard program of instruction (POI) that accomplishes the training requirements of State Traditional OCS during a compressed eight week program. Two accelerated courses are run annually; Winter Accelerated OCS (WAOCS) begins each January, and Summer Accelerated OCS (SAOCS) begins each June. The State Accelerated OCS program is best suited for applicants who have several years of prior military and leadership experience.

Applicants must be in excellent physical shape, and those who are used to a rigorous fitness routine are historically the most successful. Pre-OCS will be conducted prior to shipping to the State Accelerated OCS course.

Federal OCS (FOCS): A dynamic and demanding 14 week POI conducted in three phases at Ft. Benning, Georgia, designed to transform enlisted Soldiers to commissioned officers.

Basic Phase: (approximately four weeks) focuses on basic military skills and is conducted with a climate of strict discipline. Basic Phase is very physically demanding, and combines tactical and technical training with leadership development.

Intermediate Phase: (approximately 6 weeks) consists of continued focus on basic phase skills, and expansion of training to include tactics, patrolling, weapons, and CBRN operations while furthering OC's leadership skills.

Senior Phase: (approximately 4 weeks) continues with ethics, military justice, logistics, and personnel administration training. OC's are expected to show continued development of their leadership skills, and will conduct themselves as officers for basic and intermediate phase candidates during Senior Phase.
