Company E, 237th Support Battalion ~ Springfield

Born and raised in Logan County, Aldo initially joined the National Guard for the college benefits. “I originally joined the service to have college paid, but I recently re-enlisted for six years because I am proud to serve my community and country.” Aldo presently attends The Ohio State University, while also working in warehouse operations for Kohl’s department stores, where because of the current pandemic, operations ceased. “My favorite part of being called up to serve is that I am forming bonds within the community and employees of The Foodbank, Inc.”

Ohioans serving Ohioans

Ohio National Guard Soldiers and Airmen are members of your community. They are local students, teachers, law enforcement, retail workers, business owners, your co-workers, family, friends and neighbors. When the Ohio National Guard responds to an emergency or natural disaster, it’s Ohioans serving Ohioans right in their own communities. In this series, meet some of the front-line heroes serving during the current COVID-19 relief efforts, as well as a few of our members who’ve supported past humanitarian missions.
